

Habitat for Humanity Young Leaders Build

Habitat for Humanity Young Leaders Build brings together youth from across the Asia-Pacific region to support people and families in need of decent housing. We will bring young leaders and volunteers together to learn about the double ageing phenomenon in Hong Kong, intergenerational co-living and raise funds to support vulnerable elderly people living in substandard housing.

Are you aged 15-30? Why not join our multi-month activities:

Throughout this multi-month campaign, you can help us by creating your own fundraising campaign and sharing it with your friends, family, teachers and classmates. The funds raised will be used to provide de-cluttering, deep cleaning services and home hygiene kits to elderly people living in public rental housing.

Join this free virtual event to learn about the double ageing phenomenon in Hong Kong and the concept of "Intergenerational co-living". You will hear from international "human books", who will share their experience of intergenerational co-living, the challenges they faced and the learning opportunities for our community.

To continue the intergenerational experience, youth can join volunteering activities to support elderly people living in substandard housing.

Meet some of our human books, Meagan and Ann,
two different generations living together

MEAGAN PARKER

I was born and raised in Ancaster, Ontario, recently moved to Toronto about 4 months ago, and decided to look for more affordable housing and found the Toronto Homeshare Program. I love Toronto and I'm super happy to be able to live here with what I'm able to afford, and intergenerational living has made this possible.

ANN LAGER

I was born London England Nov.6, 1943, came to Canada in 1947 with family, grew up and lived most of my life in Toronto. I worked in interior design and commercial real estate. I retired in 2004.

*The virtual human library event will be conducted in English
